Not a DNS or Web proxy. Instead, it registers network hosts as easy-to-remember names. This means that when people enter that name on a web browser or you can send an email from it, they'll always find the right computer. In other words, it lets you create a "home page" for your network. No-IP Description: No-IP is a non-profit organization providing dynamic IP services to the public at low cost. No-IP provides a free service to manage dynamic Internet Protocol (IP) addresses and tunnel through firewalls to help keep your IP address under your control. Anyone can use the service, and it is easy to set up. Latest News: No-IP.org released beta 6 for DUC for Windows. It is a major upgrade to the application which includes a few new features. With these features, your computer will be listed under a new Dynamic DNS URL, which will last long! Review the known issues:No-IP Dual-User Client v6.1.11.1 - MAC v10.2.0.0 You may find the plugin doesn't work: If you try to load the plugin via Plugin Manager (Options -> Plugins) you may get a message saying Plugin "DUC" has not been loaded because it failed to initialize the browser helper object. Please reinstall the plugin. There is also a problem with the plugin saving the username and password that is asked for before starting to use it. Try it out on a different browser and clear your Firefox cookies (Tools -> Options) and see if the plugin works. Check out our instructions for installing plugins on the "Support" page. For help: If you're not sure how to use an update or want to update your client manually, you can check out our detailed update instructions. Known Issues: DUCs using Windows 7 or Windows Vista and activated by using the date/time activation method might not be able to view the account information for the Free account (Local Pool). Windows XP users, however, should not have this problem. While viewing an account, if you accidentally click "Enable Account", then try to submit the account, the plugin will crash. You can right-click a group or DUC in the list, then click Update-Group or Update-DUC to change the group name. This is the same as clicking the "Update Group" or "Update DUC" button
